

Australian Cuisine the Beginning and the Future

Dr Jacqui Newling

Tuesday 26th 10.30am

'In this 'guided tour' of historic menus, this session delves into Australia's culinary past to see how we ate from 1788 to the mid-20th century. What do they tell us about society and culture, and what will the menus we create today tell future historians about us?

Bio

Dr Jacqui Newling is a gastronome, historian and museum curator. Author of Eat your history, stories and recipes from Australian kitchens, 1788-1950s, Jacqui has specialised interests in Australian gastronomy - past and present - and the ways that cuisine and culinary culture reflect social identity. Among her many food forays, Jacqui enjoys working with chefs to bring history to life for contemporary diners through edible experiences based on historic menus and recipes while allowing scope for chefs' creative expression on the plate.

Jacqui is going to lead us on a journey of discovery about Australian Cuisine
