AUTHOR: Created by Valerie Catt Joglar, M.S., CMMHC, a certified health psychologist who has an accredited master's degree with an advanced degree certificate in health and wellness coaching and education from Northcentral University. Valerie has been creating court ordered rehabilitation education since 2015. Valerie is also the president of the Court Ordered Rehabilitation Education Providers Services Organization (C.O.R.E.P.S.O.).

CERTIFICATION GOALS: The goal of this program training certification is to give the trainer real life examples of rehabilitation coaching and delinquency interventions in real time. The coaching curriculum can be used in any case management situation and consists of the trainer's workbook and training transcript which contains topic discussions, recommended continuing education, question, answer, feedback assessments and rehabilitation processes including journaling.

EVIDENCE BASED CERTIFICATION PROVIDER: All C.O.R.E.P.S.O. Certification Program content strictly adheres to guidelines provided by the American Psychological Association, the US Department of Health & Human Services, the Substance Abuse & Mental Health Services Administration, the National Coalition against Domestic Violence and the White House Strategies for HIV/AIDS and Suicide Prevention. Emergency and hotline numbers are provided and listed.

ENDORSEMENTS: All C.O.R.E.P.S.O. content is certified by the Court Ordered Rehabilitation Education Providers Services Organization (COREPSO) at <https://COREPSO.Thinkific.com> and the National Court Ordered Education Institute's Advisory board of Licensed and Certified Physical and Mental Health Professionals. The NCOei Advisory Board presently consists of licensed and certified mental health professionals in the fields of health psychology, clinical psychology, doctor in psychology, doctor in corrections rehabilitation, caseworkers, social workers, psychiatry, psychiatric and research nursing, dietetics, master health coaching, chemical dependency counseling, drugs and alcohol case management, relationship coaching.

CERTIFICATION DOCUMENTATION: Certificates, Enrollment forms, progress reports and completion documents follow the established guidelines by U.S. court systems. All documents are instantly emailed to the student (via the preferred email address during enrollment). Documentation and completion status can be obtained by emailing C.O.R.E.P.S.O. directly at: COREPSO.Thinkific@gmail.com. All certification programs include instantly emailed proof of enrollment, a training transcript, a workbook and a certificate of accomplishment and a certification registration number which is also stored in the student's account.

PROJECTS AND ASSIGNMENTS: Processes are prescribed throughout the program, which the Master Trainees must engage in as part of their training curriculum. Master Trainees are required to complete a training transcript project of their studies which will include question, answer feedback sessions, surveys, and topic relevant discussions. The training transcript is proof of the trainee's efforts and accomplishment as well as a training guide designed to conduct sessions with probationers/clients.

ASSESSMENTS AND EXAMS: C.O.R.E.P.S.O. Certification Programs contain extensive practice assessments with question, answer and feedback sessions and extensive exam questioning in a pass or fail format. Exam questioning is extensive and covers all content. All progress is tracked, and a progress report is available upon request COREPSO.Thinkific@gmail.com.

CERTIFICATION MISSION: The mission of C.O.R.E.P.S.O. Certification Programs is to provide education, direction, and guidance to help caseworkers help probationers (clients) become self-aware of actions, behaviors and consequences and become resilient to change and open to transformation. Instructional coaching is used to motivate, inspire and uplift—promoting an increased state of self-awareness by educating how attention, thoughts and emotions result in habitual thought patterns which drive behavior which, in turn, affects mental and physical health. An introduction to various health coaching methods and techniques is presented in the C.O.R.E.P.S.O. online content, introducing positive behavior change through various real-life examples of real people facing real challenges in their own lives. The goal of our dialectical certification programs is to instruct how to motivate behavior change through the awareness of cognitive development and understanding of the conscious and subconscious mind within the realm of emotional intelligence (EQ) and cognitive dissonance. At C.O.R.E.P.S.O. we believe that EQ is the new IQ! C.O.R.E.P.S.O. is dedicated to promoting the understanding of emotional intelligence and how this concept relates to one's self-efficacy (self-empowerment).
